58 % of Banking Customers Want Services Delivered Digitally: Are You Ready?

CGI Survey

KPMG says, "Banks need to fast track digital integration throughout their organization... the need for speed is more important than ever before."

A survey by CGI says "The majority of financial consumers want omni-channel services, regardless of age or income."

Are you ready?

KPMG and CGI have good advice, but for many financial institutions, there are significant hurdles.

Insufficient bandwidth for one, which can slow applications and services to a crawl, leading to user and customer dissatisfaction.

Also, network upgrades are difficult due to cost, time, and talent constraints at the branch level.

Versa Networks Has Banking Experience

We're a reseller for Versa, the company that was chosen by Capital One to implement the bank's new SD-WAN network. Although we are usually vendor agnostic, if proven experience is your top concern, we'd recommend Versa.

Versa's approach to SD-WAN and integrated SD-Security is unique – it's fully software-based, integrates a deep set of layered security, and is 100% multi-tenant to enable full segmentation of your network. You can find out more about Versa's work for Capital One here.

Omega TeleServe Has SD-WAN Experience

You don't need to look any further than yours truly. We were early to the SD-WAN marketplace and have installed and managed endpoints for clients in the healthcare, insurance, and hospitality industries.

OMEGA TELESERVE, LLC

We also have extensive experience in working with banks for their traditional telco needs.

In 2016 we became the first reseller in the southwest for VeloCloud. We have since expanded our portfolio of SD-WAN vendors to include Versa and CloudGenix.

We can provide you with a co-managed SD-WAN service that gives you the flexibility to self-manage your application and security policies, while we manage the overall connectivity, customer experience and network SLAs.

We're easy to work with and we'd like to help.
